Jesters Start Rehearsals On Play, "Night Must Fall"

Leucker Plays Lead and Directs

"Night Must Fall," a strange melodrama of chills and thrills, has been chosen by the Jesters for their Spring quarter production to be given in the Russell auditorium on the evening of May 8.

Leo Leucker, director of the play, will play the leading role of Dan, a bellboy in a resort hotel in Essex England.

The two principle feminine roles, that of old Mrs. Bramson and her niece, Olivia, will be played by Lois McCrory and Marion Culpepper.

Other important characters in the play include: Mrs. Terence, a middle aged cook—Cockney and fearless, Becky Earnest; Dora, the maid, Martha Pool; Nurse Libby, Celia Deese; Hubert Laurie, William C. Capel; Inspector Belsize, Henry Rogers.

"Night Must Fall" is a play in three acts written by Emyln Williams who specializes in audience-grippers.

This particular product of Mr. Williams' takes the leading character through everything from seduction to hanging and has been said to take the hearts of audiences to their throats and leave their hair standing on end.

Said one reviewer in the New York Times, "Mr. Williams has added a new number to his gallery of rogues, and one that can take no mean place among the lot of them—Morbidly terrifying."

"The best thrill play I ever saw—and I've seen 'em all. It takes you by the throat and leaves you gasping," commented George M. Cohan.

In this production Miss West is doing the staging with Mr. Leucker directing — in other words, exchanging places of past productions.

PKD Question To Be Debated On Rome Trip

Definite plans are being made for the first big trip of the debating season. On April 20th two teams will represent G. S. C. W. in debates against colleges at Rome, Georgia. Audrey Jenkins and Lucia Rooney will uphold the negative side of the Pi Kappa Delta question in a debate against Shorter College, while Olivia Schramm and June Moore will also defend the negative against Martha Berry. The question is "Resolved: that the United States should adopt a policy of strict economic and military isolation toward all nations outside the Western Hemisphere engaged in armed international or civil conflict."

Corinthian To Be Edited By Mary Sallee

Mary Sallee was named editor of the Corinthian, college literary magazine, in a meeting of the publications committee last week. Ruth Adams was the other candidate for the position.

Other positions on the staff passed on by the committee were Ruth Adams, Associate editor; Beth Williams, Literary editor; and Doris Thompson, Business manager.

The outgoing editor is Catherine Bowman of Thomasville.

Pitts, Cannon, Dawes Head Honor Board

Margaret Pitts was elected senior representative to Honor Board in a election last week. Being named senior representative makes her automatically chairman of both Honor Board and Honor Council.

Other class representatives elected were: Frances Cannon, junior representative and Mary Linda Dawes, sophomore representative.

A member of next year's freshman class will complete the group of Honor Board executives when elected in the fall.

The outgoing officers of Honor Board are senior representa-

Herty Medal Won By Emory Professor

Selected as this year's recipient of the Herty medal, symbolic of outstanding contributions to the field of chemistry, was Emory's Dr. J. Sam Guy, according to an announcement made here yesterday by Dr. S. L. Lindsley.

The medal, awarded every year in his field, will be awarded at a southern chemist doing most

THESE PEOPLE MAKE NEWS

It's bad enough for an artist's program to be judged as a whole, but when a G.S.C.W. girl starts criticizing the many parts which go to make up the program, he's likely to have a problem in store for himself. This did not prove to be true for one of our concert artists, Mr. Albert Spalding. Miss Lucy O'Neal remarked, "I thought his entire program was indeed praiseworthy. I especially liked the movements of his hands and the rhythm of his body."

That was not L. O'Neal enough for your reporter, so she kept on the grind to determine what others thought of this world-famous violinist.

Virginia Collar, an Atlanta Miss, replied that Mr. Spalding had a very excellent stage presentation. "I particularly enjoyed 'Ave Maria'."

Did you, and you, and you enjoy Mr. Spalding's concert? Have you stopped to think just what you like best about it? Maybe there was some very small and seemingly insignificant characteristic about him that you saw that others of us have overlooked.

The award this year to Dr. Guy is "for outstanding work in the teaching of chemistry." The award, made by a committee of the Georgia division of the American Chemical Society has been given to various famous southern chemists for research, but this year's award is on a different basis.

Dr. Guy, head of the chemist department at Emory, is famous for the outstanding students that have been trained by him.

Freshmen Become Glamor Girls at Annual Prom

The most glamorous wardrobes of Hollywood could not have outshone the lovely dresses of the freshmen at their annual dance Saturday night. One could not mention all the models present at this occasion but no doubt the rest of the campus would like to know the description of some of the unusual dresses.

Long-waisted styles were very popular. One of the more unusual ones was fashioned with a black taffeta waist coming down to the hips where a pink taffeta skirt was joined with huge black velvet bows. Net, popular for spring dances, was present in several different styles. One unusual style was fashioned with a pink net skirt and sequin waist. Another net model was embroidered with a gold thread and straps of the bodice were made of chains of rhinestones. A white net with a double skirt enhanced by two large yellow velvet bows with spring flowers intermingled could not be overlooked.

Popular skirts and blouses were seen in many combinations. A dainty white organdy blouse was worn with chiffon skirt of pastel hues. A modish black velvet waist enhanced a full green taffeta skirt. A white organdy blouse was worn with a chiffon skirt of pastel hues. A modish black velvet waist enhanced a full green taffeta skirt. A white jersey blouse, which is so new for evening wear, topped black and white skirt of the same material.

There were many interesting checks, and one of the most arresting was of black and white, trimmed with wine velvet ribbons running down the front and Dutch boy pockets were unique additions to the very full skirt. With these lovely dresses and the many others not mentioned corsages of all descriptions added to the spring atmosphere of the dance. So many orchids graced the shoulders of the freshmen that it would be impossible to name the lucky wearers.

Mary Dimon Speaks

"Personal Work" was the subject of Miss Mary Dimon's talk to the Commercial Club of which Nan McLeod is president Tuesday night.

Miss Dimon is now teaching bookkeeping in the commercial department. Plans were made at the meeting to spend the weekend, May 18-19 at Lake Laurel.

Aeolians To Give Home Concert Tuesday Night

The Aeolian Guild Singers composed of 60 girls left Thursday at 1 p. m. on their annual spring tour. From Milledgeville the group will go to Clemson, S. C., where they will sing Thursday night at the college. Friday night they will sing at Toccoa under the auspices of the Woman's Club. They will be sponsored in Rome the next night by the Lam Music Company and the Coillion Club. A series of sacred concerts will be given for the Berry School and Shorter College on Sunday. A joint congregation of the churches of Dalton will hear the Guild in a twilight musical Monday. After the concert the singers will be entertained at a dinner by the G. S. C. W. Club of Dalton. The group will take a side trip Monday to visit Look-Out Mountain.

The Home Concert will be given in the Russell Auditorium on the G. S. C. W. campus, April 16, Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock. An hour and a half of the best in choral music will be offered free of charge to the friends of G. S. C. W.

Soloists appearing with the singers on their tour are Virginia Ryals and Cornelia Moore. Two piano teams also on the program are composed of Lou Ella Meaders and Merle McKemie; Deanie Carruth and Joanne Bivins.

The Aeolian Guild Singers, an all girl organization, was founded by Mr. Max Noah, director of the Music Department of G. S. C. W. It was first named the Vesper choir, and appeared regularly at the vesper services on the campus Sunday evenings. Sacred music was studied during this period.

In 1938 the group acquired a new director, when Miss Anna-fredie Carstens became a member of the music faculty. The study of classical music written for Women's voices was added to the repertoire. The name of the club was changed to Aeolian Guild Singers in order to include the various types of musical activities included in the programs.

The spring of 1939 gave the girls a broader field in which to appear in concert, for then the first extensive trip, touring South Georgia, was made during the Spring holidays. Again a tour was made during the past Easter holidays to include West Georgia and Eastern Alabama. The Guild has just returned from a trip to North Georgia including Toccoa, Dalton, Rome, Clemson College in South Carolina.

Stories by Scandal-light

In order to see what progress his students have made in writing structural formulae, Dr. Lindsay sends his organic chemistry class to the board a la grade school fashion, a daily routine which is heartily despised by each of the scholarly chemists. One day the girls teamed up against him and started asking him questions before he could draw a similar weapon. He generously responded by writing formulae for over half the period. Thinking it best to let his class know they had not put one over on him, he remarked, "If I keep on I ought to be able to pass this course."

Dr. Taylor is noted (or better, notorious) for his lengthy remarks on one topic or another (he isn't particular), but we must give him credit for always coming around to the point eventually. The other day he lost this redeeming feature when he introduced the gentleman from Java to the senior chapel. He forgot to give his name.

In answer to a desperate prayer, Miss Martin has generously contributed one of her super-witticisms. She was commenting on the effect the army was having on the campus, what with the girls hanging across the hedge and the oh-ing and ah-ing and rolling of eyes. She then reflected, "The way the army is ganging up at Columbus you would expect the Germans to come steaming up the Chattahoochee at any moment."

Joanne Bivins made a lower than expected mark on one of those tests which are graded on the curve one day. That afternoon after the show someone asked the question: "Why did they rate 'I take this Woman' a B film? I think it is good enough to rate a couple of As." Joanne obligingly replied, "They must have put it on the curve."

Bone Names Cabinet For 1940-41 Y Program

New members were named to the Cabinet of the Y. W. C. A. by joint action of the Executive Committee of the "Y" and the old Cabinet to serve for the coming year.

The following girls were appointed: Mary Jean Everett, Christian Faith; Frances Cannon, Personal Relations; Reba Yarbrough, World Community; Judy Krauss, Economics and Labor; Margaret Baldwin, Chapel Devotionals; Jean Garrett, Appreciation Group; Jessie Marie Brewton, Deputations; Loree Bartlett, Morning Watch; Beth Williams, Vespers; and Winifred Noble, Freshman Sponsors.

These students will go into office on April 21 when the new officers are installed. Josephine Bone will be president of the "Y" for the next year. She will be assisted by Emily Cook as first vice-president, Augusta Slappy as second vice-president, Ruth Bone as secretary, and Libby Upshaw as Treasurer.

Tentative plans have been made for a slight change in the organization of the "Y" Cabinet. The suggestion was made and was favorably received by "Y" Cabinet that "members at large" be selected to sit on Cabinet next year. It was felt that this would give some girls who are now ineligible because they are leaving school early or for other reasons cannot be on Cabinet, an opportunity to sit on Cabinet. They would not have any particular task to perform.

Georgia Poet Reads Own Poetry on Thurs. Night

"The poet's mind is photographic—He may write about something he has seen back in Cairo two years ago. There is no way of knowing the next subject or what will be written on the subject," commented Daniel Whitehead Hickey, eminent Georgia poet, appearing before a small but enthusiastic audience in Peabody auditorium Thursday evening.

He told of a dear friend inviting him to her garden to watch her moon flowers open. She was certain he could get a poem out of them. He watched—came back home—wrote a poem on machines! Two years later a poem was written on moon flowers.

"I felt as if I were watching vivid pictures being flashed on and off as Mr. Hickey read his poetry," said a member of the audience after the program.

It is not a hard matter to conjure up many examples of just what the reader was talking about. For instance, in his poem "Now Since the Pacific" he mentions that he is "Blessed with silver coins of time to spend" and in "Island Moonrise" compares the moon to a lot: "bather when it is seen between the horizon and the ocean."

Beginning with "Silence" which concluded that man had much to learn from silence and simple nature, Mr. Hickey read and commented on a number of his sonnets and other types of poetry. Included were "Adventure in Spring," "Guns Along the Maginot," and many other sonnets the most recent being three sonnets about the war.

DeJong's "Old Haven", Story Of Dutch Traditions, Reviewed

By MILDRED BALLARD

On a strangely wild and terrifying night a child is born to Grietje and Gosse Mellema. On that same night storm-tossed waters pour over the dike onto the little town of Witsum and frighten fisherwives into crying out evil forebodings for the tiny baby, Klass—born the grandson of proud Great Beppe Mellema, who does as she pleases and dominates the community accordingly—but born also on this night of destruction with a caul over his face. But it is not for many years after that the thing that happens to him causes those old superstitious to be aroused again.

Living Characters

DeJong injects some such vital element into his Dutch family that, though we know little of these seafaring peoples, yet they come alive and take their places among our fictional friends. Those richly colored canvases of the great Dutch painters find vibrant counterparts in this Holland of the author's childhood.

Dutch Traditions

A little Dutch village, closely knit in clan and custom, weaves a web of tradition so tightly around handsome Tjerk Mellema and his young wife Antoinette that their love seems destined to become smothered beneath society's heavy blanket of suppression. It is their struggle against an unnatural situation that brings the story to a climax.

Characterizations are sharply defined—each a personality without mistake, from salty old Great Beppe to her four unmarried daughters, resplendent in their Paris creations, and poised like some exotic birds on their perches of dignity. The whole is a penetrating glimpse into the Holland of today and the Holland of centuries ago.

Wed. Chapel To Present New Ensemble

The string ensemble, composed of Arthur Kreutz and Miss Beatrice Horsburgh, violin; Miss Jean Garrett, viola; and Max Noah, cello; will give a concert in chapel Wednesday, April 17.

The program includes "Andante" by Van Dittersdorf, "The Mill" by Raff, "Serenade" by Haydn, "Serenade from Namo-una" by Lalo, and "Rondo" by Mozart.

The ensemble was organized this year and Wednesday will be their first public appearance.

Carrie Bailie "gives" into the mike while Deanie Carruth records what she is saying. In working with a voice recording machine in the speech department the girls are floored at the high pitch of their voices when they are played back to them on a recording. Mr. Leucker says the machine tells on accents too. It shows that there is just as much difference between accents from Northwest Georgia and South Georgia as there is between those of the North and the South. In other words, there is no such thing as a Georgia accent.

Ruth Johnson To Head I R C for Coming Year

Ruth Johnson was elected president of the International Relations Club at the regular meeting Tuesday evening.

Other officers named for the coming year were: Doris Dean, vice-president; Nell Funderburk, secretary; Winonah Murphy, treasurer; Winifred Nobel and Melba McCurry, executive committee.

America's Unfinished Symphony Repeated: No End in View

A certain columnist reports that Postmaster-General (alias Presidential Candidate Party Chairman) Farley "captured the students" at the University when he spoke to them during his recent visit to Athens. It was interesting to peruse the column further and find the words with which he "captured" his young audience.

"He told them his vision of America was a land of opportunity and of tolerance; a land where science and the machine are servants of man, and not his masters; a land of freedom for the individual under representative government."

Then in conclusion, Mr. Farley said he believed he could leave this "in the hands of the present generation."

I suppose politicians think the least they can do, is officially hand us the visions American politicians have had for the past two centuries.

TEMPORARY EDITOR COMMENTS

When one is not accustomed to having one's comments printed one finds it difficult to find the right words in which to express the ideas safe and sane enough to print. On the other hand it is not an easy mental task to brush aside those thoughts which would be expressed freely in conversation yet might look scarlet in the Colonnade. This baffle, my dear readers (or reader), comes from your pinch-hitting editor who is in a pretty pinched position what with half the usual staff functioning and who is doing more missing than she is hitting. I hope Weaver and Panke are "conventioning" sufficiently this week because Stringer is planning to take a little vacation and let them be joint editors, next week.

PICTURE PAINTED ON ONE SIDE

Had most of you ever thought about where we get our war news? As a matter of fact we never probe our own feelings and opinions deeply enough to discover that the reason we are pro-Ally is the fact that we only hear the Allied side of the goings-on.

Do you ever see a German dispatch? Well, rarely (meaning seldom or never). Why? Because most of the news must pass through the British press guillotine, the censor's office.

I don't mean to say you shouldn't be all for the Allies if you wish to do so. But every day, on the editorial pages of our papers, in cartoons and in humorous remarks you find the advice "take everything you read with a generous sprinkling of salt" (some of the advice is advocating it even to the point of brine) and this is not to be passed up as merely funny statements. Just as a suggestion for a little test of the definite slant in the international reports thumb through the paper and see if you can find any news written with an unfavorable intimation about Great Britain.

MADISON, WIS.—(ACP)—Last June a dapper young University of Wisconsin alumnus of the Class of 1934, back on the campus for class reunions, walked into the Alumni Records office to inquire as to the present whereabouts of a certain former classmate. She—yes, it was a member of the opposite sex in whom he was interested—had been a pretty nice girl on the campus and he had dated her several times.

Did the office know where she was living? Had she married? The office did and gave him all the vital information. She was not married, it so happened, and was living in a city not too distant from our hero's home.

Not long ago the Records office received a notice of the forthcoming marriage of the pair with due thanks for the "cooperation" in bringing about the match.

Des Moines, Iowa—(ACP)—Drake Relays queen candidates with blue eyes will have a 5-1 chance of becoming the 1940 winner—that is, if the selections of the judges in the past six years are any criterion. Of the six Relays queens selected in former years to be queen of the relays sponsored by Drake University only one has had brown eyes. She was Nona Kennebec of Fresno State college, Fresno, California, queen in 1935.

Four of the six queens have had brown hair, however. Martha Stull of Northwestern, the first Relays queen in 1934, and Marjory Zechel of Butler University, 1938, are the only blondes to reign.

Seniors are usually chosen, but their choice of majors doesn't seem to matter. Majors range from psychiatry to music.

Not only are tall men desirable, so are tall Relays queens. All six of the previous queens have been tall. The shortest one was 5 feet 5 inches, while the tallest was 5 feet 7 inches.

From Texas to California, the queens have come, but Northwestern has the distinction of having two queens. Others have hailed from Butler University

It Looks From Here

By RUTH JOHNSON

When news correspondents and commentators told us that a drive would be made in the spring, they hit the nail on the head. A look at the happenings of the past few days in Scandinavian countries will convince us of this fact.

In trying to arrive at an intelligent solution of the reasons for the attack on Denmark and Norway, we see several possible ones. It is rumored that Britain deliberately set a trap for Germany, in order to entice her out into open naval warfare with Britain. Yet this seems foolish, when a comparison is made of the strength of the two naval forces. Undoubtedly the German ships had left for the invasion into Scandinavian waters before the mining of the waters by Britain. How was Germany able to accomplish this feat without the knowledge of Britain?

Norway and Denmark, although they are the invaded countries, have had little to do with the major fighting. Denmark met the invasion with disciplined non-resistance and Norway with scattered fighting. These two little countries, with a total population of 6,750,000, stand little chance against the invasion of the mighty army of Germany. Hitler extends his protection to the two countries against the British violation of their neumain University building. Three direct contacts have been observed. The first occurred early last spring, when 16,000 amperes shot through the Cathedral. A 3,000-volt disturber was shattered by the stroke. The second "unidirectional surge" was confirmed on June 10 and reached 21,000 amperes. The last recorded hit came sometime between October 21 and 25, 1939.

PITTSBURGH, PA.—(ACP)—While thousands of students sit quietly in their classes in the University of Pittsburgh's Cathedral of Learning, lightning may be shivering the spine of the Cathedral, for it has been struck more than any other building in the university district, declares H. E. Dyche, professor and head of the department of electrical engineering.

A bolt of lightning which attained the crest magnitude of 21,000 amperes, enough electricity to supply four and a half Cathedrals at one time, hit the trality. It does not take a genius to see that this is only a thinly veiled excuse, even as Hitler has used similar ones, in order to attain his ends.

The part the U. S. will be called upon to play vitally concerns the greater number of us. President Roosevelt has rushed back to Washington from his Hyde Park home to discuss the new developments of the war. He has taken no immediate action to invoke the neutrality act anew, but in all probability this will come at a very early date. If the neutrality act is invoked, the trade of the U. S. will be affected, and the zone of travel for ships will be restricted. There is the possibility however, of England now turning to the U. S. for some of the bacon and dairy products she is buying from the Scandinavian countries. Then there is always the problem of removing American citizens from the war zones. If this development has no other immediate effect on the American people, it will cause many of them to stop and think seriously of the situation in Europe and the threat to the neutrality of this country.

So, I would say that it looks from here as if the real action of war has begun, with still the probable outcome as much a question in our minds as it has been in the past.

AUSTIN, Texas, March—Only one half of U. S. collegians report that they know about the American Student Union.

Of those who have heard about it, 48 per cent have received an unfavorable impression of the organization.

At least three out of every ten in that same group believe that the A. S. U. is a front for communists in colleges.

Although a majority of those with opinions exonerates the American Student Union, long under fire for its uproarious conventions and alleged Red leadership, this survey reveals that it has undoubtedly succeeded in making a bad name for itself with a large sector of the student population. Slightly over 50 per cent of the men and women attending college, however, declare that they never heard of the A. S. U. Those who were acquainted with it were asked these questions, and they gave the answers below:

"Are your reactions to this organization (the A. S. U.) favorable?" (Continued on page five)

Next Thursday afternoon the students will meet and if possible defeat the Faculty in eight innings of hard played softball. When Dr. Boeson was informed of his election as captain of the faculty team he said, "I got put out for not knowing the rules once, but that was a long time ago." The captain of the student team has not as yet been elected. It's really a lot of fun to come out and watch the spills (Mainly by Doris Warnock) and the thrills (by everybody).

Gwen Mullins, manager of the sport has made this startling announcement, "I will take anyone to the tea room that hits a ball as far as Terrell without its bouncing."

And Miss Colvin's offer from last year still holds good, that of a free ice cream cone! Come on out!

2. A person cannot sign up for a court more than 24 hours in advance of the time she is going to play.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The preliminary course for the Instructors' Course in Water Safety will start Wednesday evening, April 17 at 8 o'clock. The course will comprise a continuous series of 10 meetings of an hour and a half in length, and will meet every night from April 17 to May 1, Saturdays and Sundays excluded.

As has already been stated in the Colonnade, anyone who wishes to take this course must be at least 19 years old and hold either an Examiner's Rating, a Senior Lifesaving Certificate, or an Instructor's Rating. All those interested should report immediately to Miss Jennings of the Physical Education Department.

ETTA CARSON, president of the Rec. Association, spent last weekend at Shorter attending an athletic convention and is planning to leave Tuesday for Morgantown, West Va., to participate in another. Ann Waterston will accompany her.

HOW TO WIN BOY-FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE STAG-LINES

By Dalea Dorothy Clix

Dear Miss Clix: Can you help me? I'm terribly upset—nearly flunked in Romance Languages and Geology, and all because of a young man I met three weeks ago. He came over to one of our house parties. I had spent the afternoon in the chemistry lab, and my hands were a fright. When he started to hold my hand, he looked at it—and dropped it like a hot cake. He hasn't come to see me since. I can't study—oh, Miss Clix, he's simply divine, plays half-back on his school's football team! What shall I do?

Dear "Can't Sleep": Awful hands are the most effective way to scare a man away, more effective than anything else unless, of course, you are ugly enough to stop a clock. If you are, or if you can't take care of your hands, you'd better think of a serious career in Geology or something, and forget men entirely. However, if you'll invest a little time on making yourself lovely, why not begin with your hands—and that, dear "Can't Sleep", means waking up the beauty of your fingernails!

AND NOW, DEAR, READ THE NEXT COLUMN CAREFULLY!

AND HERE'S WHAT YOU CAN DO ABOUT BEAUTIFUL NAILS

College women who value true fastidiousness of fingernails are most enthusiastic about DURA-GLOSS, the nail polish that's different. Easier to use, goes on more smoothly, dries quickly to gem-like lustre. Yes, and the nail polish keeps its gloss longer, resists chipping longer! Only ten cents at all cosmetic counters. Have the most beautiful fingernails in the world! Buy DURA-GLOSS—today!

Goya Returns With Spanish Dances; Harpist Performs

A capacity audience was thrilled with the delightful dancing of the artist Carola Goya at the Russell Auditorium of G. S. C. W., Monday night.

In her colorful interpretations of the dances of the provinces of Spain, in her dignified and humorous moods, adapted to each dance, in her brilliant skill in the use of the castanets, and in her very clever pantomiming, La Goya performed a completely satisfying and exhilarating concert.

As the colored lights played on her well chosen costumes, ranging from the bouffant skirt, mantilla and comb to the gay gypsy skirt and shawl, she interpreted the mood of each dance with superb skill. Her foot work in Farruca Bivina, typical dance of Andalusia, and in Fandagullo Gitano, a Ronda dance, was especially praiseworthy.

Not a small part of the program was the sincere and masterful artistry of Beatrice Burford, harpist. She played with assurance, expressiveness, brilliance and colorful variations. The tones often resemble those of the piano as the skilled fingers of Miss Burford played selections from the works of Handel, Debussy, Saint-Saens and others.

Emilio Osta, La Goya's accompanist, ably performed at the piano not only for the dances but he knit the program together by his well chosen interludes.

The adroit artist La Goya has once again pleased a very receptive G. S. C. W. audience with her consummate skill.

Carson Has Article on Play Night in News Letter

The following article was written by Etta Carson, new President of the Recreation Association and was published in the quarterly News Letter put out by the Brenau Athletic Association.

Echoes From Milledgeville

"Our co-recreational program is perhaps of some interest.

Every Saturday night we have "Play night" in the gym, and the girls come over, whether they have dates or not; and dance, play table tennis, and other individual sports such as paddle tennis, shuffleboard, and deck tennis.

Since this is Leap Year, the Recreation Association decided to sponsor a Leap Year party as entertainment on Saturday night, February 24th. The girls spent their money on the boys for a change and really didn't seem to mind doing it. At the door, corsages, made of vegetables and weeds, were sold and you would be surprised at the rapidity with which these were sold. Upon going upstairs, they found "Sloppy Joe's Tavern" where all the excitement took place. In the "Game Room" bingo and a penny throwing game were the center of interest. Next door was the so-called "bar" in which Coca-Colas, candy, and crackers were sold. The decorations of these rooms were of "honky-tonk" style. The lights were covered with crepe paper and advertisements were hung around and about. On the tables in the "bar" were empty Coca-Cola bottles with candles in them; wax had dripped down the sides so that they would fit into the setting.

In the gym, dancing went on during the evening for the time that was taken up in the choosing of the "King of G. S. C. W." He was given a ribbon with his title on it and a crown was put on his head; as a prize he received a rolling pin. After some more dancing, balloons were thrown to the dancers; and a little later the party was over.

The party was very successful and seemed to be enjoyed by all, especially the boys.

Sincerely Yours,

HENRIETTA CARSON.

And at the end of these quotation marks was this sentence added by the B. A. A. "It looks like Milledgeville is having a wonderful year. I wonder if we all have as wide awake programs."
